GRANT voted the Democratic ticket until he was elected President. Hartranft's first Republican vote was for himself, and now comes Rawle, another renegade Demograt, No wonder McClure wanted one Republican on the ticket.-Pittsburgh Post.

SENATOR MORTON'S paper, the Indianapolis Journal, says: "If the Washington Republican speaks by authority, as it claims to, then the President's letter is the opening, instead of the closing of the third-term discussion, and those papers which regard it as a definite condusion of the whole matter are fatally mistaken. We hope they are right, and that the Washington paper does not speak by authority."

THE Pittsburgh Disputch (Rep.) says that "the real secret of the anti-third term declaration by the Lancaster convention was the purpose of Cameron, Mackey and Errett to open the way to Hartranft for President." And the Disputch might have added with equal truthfulness, the real object of carrying Pennsylvania for Hartranft would be to have the Pennsylvania delegation in a compact shape to dispose of to the highest bidder at the National Convention of the Republican party in 1876.

THE Democratic Delegate Elections will be held next Saturday, and the County Convention the Monday Iollowing. The material from which to select a ticket is excellent, and the Convention need only be composed of men of good judgment and proper party concern, to insure an acceptable result. Of course all aspirants cannot now be successful, because there are not positions enough to bestow. But whilst the claims of some must be deferred, a few years will bring another opportunity, and then all may try their chances again. To the ticket nominated Democrats will give a cordial and active support. Radicalism, exposed and convicted, can make no show of claim to popular favor here or else-

Some of the Radical organs profess to be delighted with Hartrantt and Rawle, and their tone would indicate that they had had some doubt of Hartranft's nomination. FARM AND GARDEN.

CLEAN FARMING. We heartily endorse the following by growth, and earth all up at once, which correspondent of the Rural World: is the best method. About the 1st of a correspondent of the Rural World: Nothing should be grown or suffered October, earthing up may proceed with to grow on a farm that cannot be con- out injury; but let it be done firmly varied into money. Weeds and briars, and evenly, and on a sloping direction therefore, should not be permitted to grow, for there is no money value in them, therefore they are a muisance, sound for a long time; should the seed, will exhaust the soil as much as a corp of green of green of green of green or green of green or erop of griss or grain, which will have plants; it is well on the approach of a money value. It is amusing to hear men—farmers—say that they let their fields grow weeds in order to rest their will keep for several weeks. To grow land, and to be plowed under the next large orlsp celery give copious waterings season for manure. There can be no objection to the plowing under of green Celery which is earthed or banked up crops as manure, but the refuse of defunct weeds will add but little to the funct weeds will add but little to the fertility of the soil. Why not grow grass instead of weeds." With very little trouble land can be seeded down to grass, and used for pasture or hay; grass, and used for pasture or hay; twelve; the distinction, if there be any this can be converted into milk, beer, is more in their culture than any differ wool, mutton or pork, out of which once in variety. Keep the plants growmoney can be made. The droppings of ing in rich soil, well watered, and your the stock and the sod full of roots, may be plowed under for another crop in 10tation. Any system of farming that thin as pipo stems. will permit any part of the farm to 10main unproductive for one year cannot be considered good farming. Every nere of ullable land on a farm, if properly managed, will produce something that may be converted into money. farming lies. Talk about giving land rest. Give it plenty of food and change rest. Give it plenty of food and change purpose of procuring a recommendation, of occupation, and it requires no rest.
With a system based on these principles, of modern invention. No doubt the it will grow stronger and better every pride of the inventor and salesman was Clean farming also applies to the crops sown. If you grow wheat let it be all wheat, not a mixture of wheat, cheat and cookle and other vite stuff.

A fick and the cookle and other vite stuff. A field with such a mixture is an unsightly thing, and detracts very much from the character of the farmer. It is the constant of the farmer of the farmer of the farmer of the farmer of the constant is to shows a carelessness in the preparing of $\hat{\mu}_{rst}$ importance in corn culture is to that admits of no apology. A plowed field, with each furrow turned over and fitting picely in the track of the preceding one, straight and true from end to end, and headlands close to the feace, looks beautiful. A rail fence, with the pannels up straight and true, with the corners clean; and set with grass, is beautiful. It is a fact that the farmer must have a taste for the beautiful in all his operations and surroundings, or he is not likely to be the most successful in his occupation.
